

GIT-2, IRA Withdrawals

Introduction

An individual retirement account (IRA) is a personal savings plan in which you set aside money for retirement. This bulletin explains the New Jersey gross income tax rules that apply when you contribute money to or withdraw money from a traditional IRA or Roth IRA. It also describes how to use New Jersey's IRA Worksheet to calculate the taxable portion of an IRA withdrawal for your New Jersey income tax return. The portion of your IRA withdrawal which is taxable for New Jersey purposes may differ from the Federal amount.

IRA Contributions

Traditional IRA

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not contain any provisions similar to the Internal Revenue Code which permit an individual to deduct contributions to an IRA. Contributions to an IRA are subject to New Jersey income tax in the year they are made. When you make a withdrawal from an IRA, the amount you contributed is not taxable, since the contributions were taxed at the time they were made.

Roth IRA

Like any other IRA, contributions to a Roth IRA are not excludable for New Jersey income tax purposes but are subject to New Jersey income tax in the year they are made. When you make a withdrawal from a Roth IRA, the portion of the withdrawal that represents your contributions is not taxable, since the contributions were taxed at the time they were made.

Rollovers. If you qualify under Federal rules to convert an existing IRA to a Roth IRA, you also qualify for New Jersey tax purposes. Conversion eligibility for New Jersey is automatic upon Federal qualification even if your New Jersey taxable income exceeds the Federal limitations.

You can withdraw all or part of the assets from a traditional IRA and reinvest them (within 60 days) in a Roth IRA. In most cases, your contributions to a traditional IRA were previously taxed and only the earnings are taxable to New Jersey in the year you elect to roll over the funds. However, any amounts you roll over from a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA which were not previously taxed by New Jersey, such as a rollover distribution to an IRA from an employer's 401(k) plan, must be included in New Jersey income in the year withdrawn from the traditional IRA.

Any contributions you made to an IRA before you moved to New Jersey are treated in the same way as they would have been treated if you had been living in New Jersey at the time you made the contributions.

IRA Withdrawals

Traditional IRA

Your IRA consists of your contributions, earnings, plus amounts, if any, rolled over from other pension plans. Generally, the contributions were taxed when they were made. Interest, dividends, and other earnings credited to an IRA are subject to tax upon withdrawal. In addition, any amounts which were rolled over into an IRA tax-free from a pension plan are subject to New Jersey tax when they are withdrawn.

An exception exists with respect to the taxability of an IRA withdrawal when the IRA funds are invested in obligations which are exempt from New Jersey income tax. The Gross Income Tax Act specifically excludes from gross income (1) interest received from obligations of the State of New Jersey or any of New Jersey's political subdivisions, or (2) interest received from direct Federal obligations which are statutorily free from state or local taxation.

Thus, where the interest received by the taxpayer on an IRA distribution is from exempt obligations which are directly owned by the taxpayer in the IRA plan, the interest is exempt from New Jersey income tax.

Likewise, if the IRA is part of a New Jersey "Qualified Investment Fund," the portion of the distribution from the IRA which represents interest or gains from the qualified exempt obligations held by the fund is exempt. However, the portion of a distribution which comes from taxable investments held by the fund is taxable.

If the IRA is part of a mutual fund that is not a Qualified Investment Fund, the distributions paid by the mutual fund are exempt only to the extent the distributions are attributable to interest on Federal obligations.

For more information on tax-exempt interest income and New Jersey Qualified Investment Funds, request Tax Topic Bulletin GIT-5, Exempt Obligations.

Roth IRA

Qualified Distributions. A qualified distribution from a Roth IRA is excludable and does not have to be included in New Jersey gross income in the year received whether it is a periodic distribution or a lump-sum distribution. A "qualified distribution" means any payment or distribution that is made after the five-taxable-year period beginning with the first taxable year in which a contribution was made to an individual's Roth IRA, and is made:

- On or after the date on which the individual reaches age 59½; or
- To a beneficiary (or the individual's estate) after the individual's death; or
- Because the individual becomes disabled; or
- As a qualified first-time home buyer distribution as defined by the Internal Revenue Code.

Nonqualified Distributions. A payment or distribution will not be treated as a qualified distribution if it is not made under one of the four circumstances above or is made within the five-taxable-year period which begins with the year the first contribution was made to the Roth IRA. Likewise, a payment or distribution of an allowable rollover contribution (or income earned on the amount rolled over) from an IRA other than a Roth IRA, is not a qualified distribution if it is made within the five-taxable-year period which begins with the year in which the roll-over contribution was made. Under this “five-year rule,” if you established a Roth IRA in 1998 you will not be able to receive a “qualified distribution” before 2003. For information on calculating the taxable portion of a nonqualified distribution, see Lump-Sum Distributions and Rollovers, and Periodic Distributions below.

Reporting Taxable Amounts

Taxable amounts withdrawn from either a traditional or a Roth IRA are reported on the same line of the New Jersey tax return as taxable pensions and annuities (Line 19a, Form NJ-1040 or Line 42, Column A, Form NJ-1040NR). Thus, qualified taxpayers are entitled to apply to their taxable IRA distributions the same income exclusions authorized by the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act for pensions and annuities.

For information on reporting pension and annuity income on your New Jersey income tax return, and using the New Jersey income exclusions, request Tax Topic Bulletin GIT-1, Pensions and Annuities.

Coverdell Education Savings Account (ESA)

A Coverdell education savings account (ESA), formerly known as an education IRA, is not a retirement account. It is a trust or custodial account created only for the purpose of paying the qualified higher education expenses of the designated beneficiary of the account. New Jersey’s treatment of a Coverdell ESA differs from the Federal treatment. Contributions to Coverdell ESAs are subject to New Jersey income tax in the year they are made. When you make a withdrawal from a Coverdell ESA, the amount contributed is not taxable. Earnings credited to a Coverdell ESA are subject to New Jersey tax upon withdrawal. Distributed earnings from a Coverdell ESA are reported on Line 15, Form NJ-1040 (or Line 36, Column A, Form NJ-1040NR).

Do not include the earnings portion of a distribution from a Coverdell ESA on Line 19a, Form NJ-1040 (or Line 42, Column A, Form NJ-1040NR).

For information on the treatment of qualified state tuition program accounts, including the New Jersey Better Educational Savings Trust (NJBEST) accounts, request Tax Topic Bulletin GIT-5, Exempt Obligations.

Lump-Sum Distributions and Rollovers

When you receive a lump-sum distribution from a traditional IRA or lump-sum nonqualified distribution from a Roth IRA, the amounts you receive which are in excess of your previously-taxed contributions to the traditional IRA or Roth IRA are fully taxable and must be included in income in the year you receive them. New Jersey has no provisions for income averaging of lump-sum distributions.

A lump-sum distribution which you roll over (transfer) into a traditional IRA or other eligible plan is excludable from New Jersey income if the rollover qualifies for deferral for Federal income tax purposes. The amount rolled over (minus previously taxed amounts) is taxable later when it is withdrawn. As under Federal law, the rollover must be made within the 60-day period after distribution.

A distribution from a traditional rollover IRA which is fully taxable for Federal income tax purposes may be treated differently for New Jersey purposes if there are contributions remaining in the IRA which were subject to New Jersey income tax when the contributions were made.

Periodic Distributions

If withdrawals from a traditional IRA or nonqualified withdrawals from a Roth IRA are made over a period of years, the portion of the annual distribution that represents interest and accumulated gains (including amounts rolled over and not previously taxed) must be reported as taxable income each year a withdrawal is made. The amount subject to tax is based on the ratio that the taxable portion bears to the total amount in the account.

The formula to determine the taxable portion of a distribution from a traditional IRA or a nonqualified distribution from a Roth IRA is:

$$\frac{\text{Taxable Portion}}{\text{Total Value}} \times \text{Distribution} = \text{Taxable Amount}$$

Total Value means the value of the IRA on December 31 of the tax year plus total IRA distributions during the tax year.

Taxable Portion means the Total Value minus previously-taxed contributions.

In the first year a withdrawal is made, contributions means the total amount you contributed to the IRA from the time the account was opened through the end of the tax year in which the first withdrawal was made. (It does not include amounts rolled over and not previously taxed.)

After the first year, the formula for calculating the taxable portion of a distribution remains the same, but the base for each item changes to take into account the fact that both taxable and nontaxable amounts have been withdrawn from the account.

IRA Worksheet

The New Jersey IRA Worksheet incorporates the formula above. It enables you to easily calculate the taxable portion of your withdrawal from a traditional IRA or nonqualified withdrawal from a Roth IRA. If you make withdrawals from several IRAs in the same year, you may use a separate worksheet for each IRA and report the total of the taxable amounts from each worksheet on your tax return. Or, you may calculate the taxable portion by combining all the IRAs on one worksheet.

Keep copies of the IRA Worksheets you complete for your records. When you make withdrawals from a traditional IRA or nonqualified withdrawals from a Roth IRA over a period of years, you will use the previous year's worksheet as a basis for determining the taxable portion of a subsequent withdrawal from the IRA. You may use the IRA Worksheet on the next page or the one which appears in the New Jersey income tax return instruction booklet. Do not file the IRA Worksheet with your New Jersey income tax return.

Part II—Unrecovered Contributions (For Second and Later Years)

- (a) Last year's unrecovered contributions.
From line 4 of last year's worksheet* (a) _____
- (b) Amount withdrawn last year.
From line 2 of last year's worksheet (b) _____
- (c) Taxable portion of last year's withdrawal.
From line 7 of last year's worksheet (c) _____
- (d) Contributions recovered last year. Subtract line (c) from line (b) (d) _____
- (e) This year's unrecovered contributions.
Subtract line (d) from line (a) (e) _____
- (f) Contributions to IRA during current tax year.
Do not include tax-free rollovers (f) _____
- (g) Total unrecovered contributions.
Line (e) plus line (f). Enter here and on Part I, line 4b (g) _____

* If you did not complete a worksheet in prior year(s), skip Part II and calculate the amount of unrecovered contributions as follows:

- A. Determine the total amount of withdrawal(s) made from the IRA in previous years.
- B. Total the portion(s) of these previous year withdrawal(s) already reported as income on prior New Jersey tax returns.
- C. Subtract the amount of previous year withdrawals reported (B) from the total amount of previous year withdrawals (A). This difference is the amount of contributions that have been recovered thus far.
- D. Subtract the amount of recovered contributions (C) from the total amount of contributions made to the IRA. This is the amount of unrecovered contributions to enter on line 4b of Part I.

Example A

Herbert Walters started to make withdrawals from his traditional IRA in 2001. He withdrew $1,000 in 2001 and another $1,000 in 2002. The IRA Worksheets that follow show how he calculated the taxable portion of the withdrawals for his 2001 and 2002 New Jersey income tax returns.

Recordkeeping

Keeping records will help you prepare a complete and accurate tax return and pay the correct amount of New Jersey tax on income from your IRA.

Contributions. It is very important to keep any statements that show contributions made to your IRA. You will need this information when you start to make withdrawals. You may have to pay more tax than necessary if you cannot determine the amount in your IRA on which New Jersey income tax has already been paid.

Income Statements. Keep all the statements from your IRA showing the amounts you have received from the plan.

Tax Returns and Worksheets. Keep copies of the tax returns you have filed and the income tax instruction booklet as part of your records. You may need information from the return or from the IRA Worksheet or other worksheets in the instruction booklet to prepare future tax returns. This information is also necessary if you file an amended return. Copies of your returns and other records can be helpful to your surviving spouse, or the executor or administrator of your estate.
